About The Author

As a college freshman, Carolyn Howard-Johnson was the youngest person ever hired as a staff writer for the Salt Lake Tribune--"A Great Pulitzer Prize Winning Newspaper"-- where she wrote features for the society page and a column under the name of Debra Paige.

Later, in New York, she was an editorial assistant at Good Housekeeping Magazine. She also handled accounts for fashion publicist Eleanor Lambert who instituted the first Ten Best Dressed List. There she wrote releases for celebrity designers of the time including Pauline Trigere, Rudy Gernreich, and Christian Dior. She was also a consultant for the Oak Park Press in the Chicago area.

Her nonfiction and humor have been seen in national magazines and her fiction and poetry appear regularly in anthologies and review journals. She has been a columnist for The Pasadena Star News, Home Décor Buyer, a trade magazine, Myshelf.com and others. She has also written movie and theatre reviews for The Glendale News-Press an affiliate of the LA Times.

She studied at the University of Utah, graduated from USC and has done postgraduate work in writing at UCLA. She also studied writing at Cambridge University, United Kingdom; Herzen University in St. Petersburg, Russia; and Charles University in Prague. She has been an instructor for UCLA Extension renowned Writers' Program since 2003.

The author's first novel, This Is The Place, and her book of creative nonfiction are award-winners. She also wrote a screenplay, The Killing Ground. Her book The Frugal Book Promoter: How to Do What Your Publisher Won't was named USA Book News' Best Professional Book of 2004 and won Book Publicists of Southern California's Irwin award.

The second book in the HowToDoItFrugally series is The Frugal Editor: Put Your Best Book Forward to Avoid Humiliation and Ensure Success It also won a USA Book News Best Book nod. It is also the winner of Reader Views Literary Award and a finalist in the New Generation Indie Best Book Awards. Her marketing campaign for that book took top honors for marketing. She also has a multi award-winning series of HowToDoItFrugally books for retailers.

Howard-Johnson's stories have appeared in anthologies like: Pass/Fail, edited by Rose A. O. Kleidon, PhD; in review journals like California State University at Stanislaus's Penumbra, University of Montana's Front Range and the Mochila Review.

Her poetry won the Franklin Christoph prize in 2010 and has been published in anthologies including one edited by Suzanne Lummis and in review journals both online and print including Pear Noir, Journal of the Image Warehouse and The Pedestal Magazine where her poem won a readers' award.

She was honored as Woman of the Year in Arts and Entertainment Award by California Legislature members, Carol Liu, Dario Frommer and Jack Scott. She is the recipient of her community's Character and Ethics award for her work promoting tolerance. She was honored by her city's Character and Ethics committee for promoting tolerance with her writing and was named to Pasadena Weekly's list of 14 women of "San Gabriel Valley women who make life happen"

Born and raised in Utah, Howard-Johnson raised her own family in sunny Southern California.

June Casagrande, author of Grammar Snobs Are Great Big Meanies (Penguin) and syndicated grammar columnist guru says, "By creating a guide designed specifically to get writers past gatekeepers, Carolyn Howard-Johnson has created something of unmatched value: usage advice that cuts through the contentious world of grammar to offer real help. Writers polishing their manuscripts and query letters will find Howard-Johnson's guide more useful than Strunk and White."

This little booklet is carry-with-you protection against grammar gremlins and at the frugal price of $6.95.

The perfect learning experience for those who want to wow an editor in no time flat with only 6.95 cents out-of-pocket and 20 minutes out of a busy schedule.

This booklet is the result of author Carolyn Howard-Johnson's extensive work with clients who hate writing book proposals but hate learning how to write them even more. She found herself coaching them through the process rather than doing it for them, for who could possibly recreate the passion an author feels for his or her own book better than the author? In doing so, she found she had written a booklet--not a tome--that took her clients only about twenty minutes to absorb. Voila! The Great First Impression Book Proposal was born.

It was published by the Amazon Short program but when that program was discontinued, Howard-Johnson updated it and published it as both a paperback and an e-booklet.

Unsolicited Endorsements

I just finished reading your Amazon Shorts - The Great First Impression Book Proposal. As I was reading, I kept wondering where I knew your name. Then it hit me - Shelfari!

You encouraged me to write a profile about myself. I haven't done that yet. I will. "I think that is amazing. To have you as a friend on Shelfari and then read your Amazon Short as a resource. It is a great Short by the way. I like your style and encouragement. I was a bit intimidated about finishing my book proposal. I was thinking it had to be stiff and boring. I even have dialogue in it. I thought I'd have to cut it out. Now, I'll probably leave it in.

~Wanza Leftwich, author, blogger, thegospelwriter.blogspot.com

I love [Great First Impression Book Proposal]! My husband was amazed at all the info crammed into this short. You could have charged a lot more. I just re-vamped my proposal to follow the guidelines in it for my latest book.

~ Myrna Lou, Palmist/Psychic/Author

Marketing is never easy... Well, it might be if you follow the easy steps Carolyn Howard-Johnson offers up in The Great First Impression Book Proposal: Everything You Need to Know About Selling Your Book in Twenty Minutes or Less. Lists! We love lists. Anyone, almost anyone, can follow steps 1- and find their way to success; anyone who has a good list can anyway. And not all lists are created equal. Howard-Johnson's lists are created superior: easy to understand, easy to implement, and even easier to read (She means it when she says 20 minutes or less). As helpful information goes those three things are winners, but she gives us more: a list of other resources on book proposals. I will recommend this book to all of our authors, and potential authors, at LadybugPress.

Twitter has become the Web phenomenon of the decade even though many say they “don't get it,” and even those who think they do “get it” appear to be missing something. Frugal and Focused Tweeting for Retailers will help those with businesses—large or small, online or off—use Twitter in ways they never imagined by “doing it right” and integrating their efforts with all the other marketing they do. It gives retailers the benefit of Carolyn Howard-Johnson's nearly three decades experience as founder and manager of her own chain of stores, a stint as a New York publicist, retail consultant and journalist and a veteran Tweeter (If there can be such a thing as a veteran of such a new concept!). It is the second in the Survive and Thrive series for retailers in her USA Book News award-winning HowToDoItFrugally.com books.

"When you live amidst beauty sometimes you don't recognize discrimination and, if you do, you prefer not to acknowledge it."

A young journalist realizes that because she is half Mormon and half Protestant she is not suitable material for love. She delves into her Mormon heritage and journals her way through prejudice into redemption. She learns to mend her own life when she finds she cannot mend her world. This novel, set in Salt Lake City in the 50s, reveals not only complexities of the heart but the secrets of what some consider a mysterious place and culture. "This is the Place" has won eight awards including the Critics' Choice award.

"Howard-Johnson strengthens her novel with behind-the-scenes details of Mormon life and history in a book suitable for all collections, particularly those where . . . Orson Scott Card's religious books are popular"

Praise and Recommendations for THE FRUGAL EDITOR

Nothing demonstrates professionalism like a well-edited submission. Follow Carolyn Howard-Johnson's clear, step-by-step self-editing approach in The Frugal Editor and you'll submit like a pro.

~ Gregory A. Kompes, Conference Coordinator, The Las Vegas Writer's Conference

Carolyn Howard-Johnson has done it again! Whether you're writing your first book or tenth, The Frugal Editor, Best Book Forward is a must-read.

~ Tim Bete, director, Dayton University's Erma Bombeck Writers' Workshop and author.

...Carolyn Howard-Johnson has created a practical guide to editing your work which you'll want to keep handy and refer to every time you finish a piece of work, whether it be a query letter, a simple pitch, or a novel. Use her system step-by-step and you will very likely see your work change from an attractive lump of coal to a polished diamond editors won't be able to refuse.

~ Magdalena Ball, editor, the Compulsive Reader

Good editing of any written work can translate to nothing less than the difference between acceptance and rejection. In this invaluable and engaging resource, Carolyn Howard-Johnson masterfully elevates an oft-misunderstood practice into the critical component of writing that it is. This book is SO needed out there. ~ Peter Bowerman, author, The Well-Fed Writer series

A down-to-earth, practical reference for getting a manuscript as close to perfection as it can possibly be. I'm excited about this book and will rely upon its easy-to-apply advice regularly. Thank you, Carolyn, for making book production (publishing; editing) so much easier!

~ Peggi Ridgway, author and website designer

The Frugal Editor: Put Your Best Book Forward To Avoid Humiliation and Ensure Success will become a well-used reference for writers around the world.

~ Cheryl Wright, editor Writer2Writer

I myself have a shelf of reference books on writing, grammar, style and editing.

One of those is The Frugal Editor: Put Your Best Book Forward to Avoid Humiliation and Ensure Success, by Carolyn Howard-Johnson.

~ Virgil Jose, writer and freelance editor

Good editing is like honest business accounting: If you don't have it, you end up with a mess. The Frugal Editor is a must for the novice writer who needs to make that ideal first impression and the writer with a tenth book hitting the shelves who has become complacent about his brilliant prose.

~ Kristin Johnson, screenwriter and writing consultant

The Frugal Editor is like having a dear writer friend who's computer-savvy and a wonderful editor share all her secrets and tips for success with you - useful, entertaining, valuable.

Praise and Recommendations for FRUGAL BOOK PROMOTER

"If you're going to read only one book to get other people to read your book, it should be The Frugal Book Promoter."

~ Tim Bete, director of Dayton University's Erma Bombeck Writers' Workshop and author

At last—a solid, sensible, systematic guide to the ins and outs of promotion and publicity. Written by a writer, for writers—Carolyn Howard-Johnson proves that she's not only an accomplished poet, essayist, and novelist, but also a marketing maestro!

~ JayCe Crawford, author, music copyright professional

{Carolyn Howard-Johnson is} an incessant promoter who develops and shares new approaches for book promotion.

~ Marilyn Ross, Founder, Small Publishers North America and author of books on publishing

The Frugal Book Promoter. I love it. Most authors don't have deep pockets for publicity, promotion and marketing; this is the kind of information we need! The chapter on the perks available on Amazon is a perfect example of the kind of practical advice offered—the kind that took me months to discover.

~ Rolf Gompertz, author, veteran publicist for NBC and 30 year UCLA Extension instructor in marketing

The Frugal Book Promoter offers practical advice the author has gleaned from personal experience. Unlike other books and articles on the subject, this one is detailed—and it's chock full of ideas that even seasoned book promoters will not have tried.

~ Dallas Hodder Franklin, author and editor of SellWritingOnline.com

Wow. What more can I say? Interesting, informative, readable and more. Easy to follow, quotes and technique mixed in together wonderfully. This is an A-one job. Watch out world! I'm going to have to put it under my pillow. ~ Leora G. Krygier, author

"Great book! My copy {of The Frugal Book Promoter} looks like a porcupine, so many pages are flagged with great tips to try."

~ Karin Ireland, author, motivational speaker

Howard-Johnson has the comforting tone of a mentor and writes with the precision of a surgeon.

~ Francine Silverman, author and editor of Book Promotion Newsletter

I'm thrilled with all the helpful info and I like the way you've clearly defined the various parts. Makes it much easier to use as a reference.

~ Vicki Malone, Publicist, Red Engine Press

Carolyn Howard-Johnson's advice in Frugal is like having your own private tutor, writing coach, PR person, English teacher, salesman of the year, marketing agent and, once you've talked to her, cheerleader, all rolled into one. They ought to bottle her energy and sell it. I'll take ten bottles. Uh ... Make that twenty.

~ Queen Jaw Jaw, Author, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Throne

I've long recommended John Kremer's 1001 Ways to Market Your Books, but until now, I didn't have many other staples to recommend to new authors looking for publicity.

Endorsements

I refer to [The Frugal Editor] all the time. I used it last year for an editor pitch at a conference—my first pitch—and I got a request for three chapters. Big NY publisher. I don't think that would have happened without your book. In fact, I'm sure it wouldn't have.

Before I came across you, and then Frugal Book Promoter I had no idea that my publisher wouldn't do publicity for me. You were a real eye-opener! Still are sometimes.
~ Cheryl Wright, author and editor of Writer2Writer.com

After reading The Frugal Book Promoter, you may know more about book publicity than your publisher.

Available Seminars and Workshops

Carolyn Howard-Johnson has nearly three decades experience planning and implementing trade show seminars. She has appeared on more than 300 radio and TV programs. She speaks on subjects aligned with This Is the Place, Harkening: A Collection of Stories Remembered, Tracings, The Frugal Book Promoter: How to Do What Your Publisher Won't and The Frugal Editor: Put Your Best Book Forward to Avoid Humiliation and Ensure Success.

Savvy Marketing for Authors: It's Never Too Late—or Early—to Hone Your Promotion Skills Because they don't face the realities of today's publishing world well before their books are released, even authors with superbly written books and prestigious publishers may find themselves facing unpleasant marketing surprises. This seminar helps writers brand themselves rather than "sell books." Carolyn Howard-Johnson shares her experience as a former public relations professional and as the primary promoter of her own four books. You'll construct the marketing framework for your own book's success. This plan can help you land an agent and publisher and may be used later by you -- the author -- your publisher or the PR professional you hire. Even seasoned authors will learn practical approaches to book promotion they never knew existed.

Bring the Dead Back to Life Using Your Genealogy and New Publishing Technology Now you've done the research, what next? Carolyn gives 10 quick and easy ways that anyone can turn family history into bedtime reading for kids from 1 to 100.

Fighting Cultural Division with a Pen The most recent census made "cultural division" the newest buzzword. Carolyn talks about her life's passion, fighting subtle prejudice before it explodes into news-making destruction.

Danger Ahead: Losing Women's Rights in the New Millennium California voted to rescind their affirmative action statutes. US foreign aid was withdrawn from countries that offer family planning services to their under privileged. Recent studies show that the gap between salaries for men and women has improved little since the 50s. Carolyn reminisces about what it was like to nurture a career against political and cultural odds, and shares her concern that women under 30 may forget women's history and let their new rights disintegrate.

What You Always Wanted to Ask about the Mormons But Were Afraid to Ask There is widespread misunderstanding about the Mormons and the state of Utah because people hesitate to ask. Carolyn lovingly shares questions she has been asked about her home state and takes questions from the audience.

Polishing A Novel Involves More than Removing the Blemishes Carolyn shares nifty little tricks of the trade for tweaking a novel that come from articles she has written like "How to Make Leaden Adverbs into Metaphorical Gold" for Span's national newsletter.

Use Your Writing Skills to get Free Publicity Carolyn was a publicist for Eleanor Lambert Agency in New York and did publicity for her own retail chain of stores. She is the author of THE FRUGAL BOOK PROMOTER: HOW TO DO WHAT YOUR PUBLISHER WON'T and has written articles on publicity for Home Décor Buyer and others. She'll share secrets about how writers can use their own writing to garner publicity.

Toward Writing Poetry Editors Will Want to Publish: 10 Tips that Work Many writers are intrigued by poetry but never learn the secrets for making it work for them.

Jump-start Your Credibility: Publish a Book! Entrepreneurs and professionals are finding it harder to get the exposure they need to grow their businesses. Ta Da!! Enter the world of publishing. It is easier and more important than ever before to use the prestige that accompanies being an author as an entree to FREE print space and air time. Carolyn Howard-Johnson will convince you that you must publish, put you on the road to making intelligent choices for your book and help you assure its success and that of your practice/business with new approaches to FRUGAL promotion.

Put Your Best Book Forward: Editing to Impress the Gatekeepers of Your Success

Workshops and dramatic readings are also available.

Unsolicited Praise for Carolyn's Seminars:

Yours was simply the most informative workshop I've ever been to. And your book is going to be, as Gordon Kirkland promised, tattered in short order.

~ Jennifer Brown, attendee at Dayton University's Erma Bombeck Writers' Workshop

"You provided step-by-step information that I can use right away to advance my career.

Your workshop was AWESOME!

~ Dorothea Helms, The Writing Fairy and attendee Erma Bombeck Writers' Workshop

It was a delight to attend your workshop at the Erma Bombeck Conference this past weekend. I'm just about to launch my Web site and e-newsletter, so your branding information came just in the nick of time. I'll be making some changes to my site with the information you shared.

~ Karen Bryant, author of Journeys: 50,000 Miles of Wise Women

"You are what I describe as an energy-giver. So many people today are energy-drainers."

The Best Promotional Money You'll Ever Spend

Throughout the book are quotes and suggestions from well known self-publicists and experts in the publicity field, along with a wealth of anecdotal information from Howard-Johnson's own considerable experience. There are lots of examples, as well as some practical templates that readers can modify to suit their own needs, checklists, and a wealth of hyperlinks to other sources, some well known and some fairly secret.

The Frugal Book Promoter
By Carolyn Howard-Johnson

I can't think of a better book promoter than Carolyn Howard-Johnson. She really practices what she preaches, sending out ceaseless media releases, making every word she writes counts, branding herself through the judicious and regular use of the byline, and networking in a kindly, and effective way that extends way beyond the boundaries of her immediate location. If you think that this kind of promotion is an incidental part of your new book's life, think again. As Howard-Johnson knows better than anyone, it simply isn't enough to rely on a publisher to publicize your book. Small publishers can't afford to, and large ones will only spend big dollars on famous names. As with all of Howard-Johnson's work, The Frugal Book Promoter is written in clear, down to earth prose which will make you feel as though you've known the author all your life. The book is full of handy, easy to remember tip sheets and ideas which can be as simple as pulling out an old piece of work, reworking it, and sending it off to a new market, or as complex as managing an entire book launch, or putting together a media kit:

How does this writing and publishing help you promote your book? It's all about something called branding (see chapter two). Every time your byline appears, you are making editors, agents, webmasters, and other writers aware of you and what you do. Every time you are published, for pay or not, your tagline appears complete with a link to your website, your e-mail address or a bookseller's site. Every time you are published, that achievement becomes part of your résumé, part of your media kit, part of the confidence you need to promote with your chin up and a brave smile on your face.

The Frugal Book Promoter covers things like the nature of Public Relations, the all-important concept of self-branding, taglines, pulling together a pitch, a step by step guide to building a media kit, building credentials, using other forms of writing to sell your book, creating a newsletter, using writer's conferences, networking, setting up a website, creating mailing lists, working with contracts, whether you should hire a publicist, how to design a good book cover, using blurbs, getting a professional photo, using promotional items, how to capture the publicity editor's attention, using postcards, obtaining and using book reviews, getting media interviews, television and radio, book expos, reading groups, book signings, using free e-books, and lots more. Throughout the book are quotes and suggestions from well known self-publicists and experts in the publicity field, along with a wealth of anecdotal information from Howard-Johnson's own considerable experience. There are lots of examples, as well as some practical templates that readers can modify to suit their own needs, checklists, and a wealth of hyperlinks to other sources, some well known and some fairly secret.

There aren't many books on this topic on the market, and Howard-Johnson's is a very practical and easy to use guide which every new author should have. Don't wait until your book is on the market before you get hold of the Frugal Book Promoter. Howard-Johnson makes the point that it is never too early to begin branding yourself and working the media, and suggests putting your media kit together before you finish your book. Nor do you need to spend a fortune to get your name and book out in the public eye. The low cost, and even fun suggestions in this book are worth media gold.

The book is available at many university bookstores at Amazon and other online bookstores. (<http://budurl.com/FrugalBkProm>)

While brainstorming marketing ideas with one of my authors about a year ago she informed me she had just purchased the book "How to Do What Your Publisher Won't." My immediate reaction was an internal "oh no" and then I clicked to Amazon to order it, and read up on what it was I wasn't going to be doing! When the neon yellow book arrived I devoured it. I was hooked from the first line in Carolyn's acknowledgement: "Oh, to remember all those who have been instrumental in the birth of a book!" By the time I was done there was as much neon highlighter yellow inside as it was outside, and a fan of post-its make the book look like a yellow-feathered peacock! Carolyn Howard-Johnson has "been there, done that" in marketing her own books and has packed all her hard-earned wisdom into this Frugal Book series.

Review by Maryanne Raphael for Writing World

The Frugal Book Promoter is a fun-to-read, easy-to follow book with step by step instructions on how to promote your book easily and inexpensively. Carolyn Howard-Johnson, a professional publicist and award-winning author, shares her expertise. She tells how to get the most from this book, "Consider everything offered as if you were testing desserts at a smorgasbord; then select what suits your book, your personality and your pocketbook." Indeed, there is good advice here for every author.

"Publicity is a matter of style," according to the author. Her style is original, exciting and humorous, as she gives us most of the essentials about promotion, publicity and public relations

"Traditional markets count dollars; guerrilla markets count relationships," she says while giving details on how to get an editor's attention, and how to build relationships with the media, editors, readers and librarians.

She says the most powerful promotion tool today is the Internet. She teaches us how to set up and use a Web site, how to use search engines, e-groups and chat rooms. She explains how to use Amazon.com to publicize and sell your book and gives authors a quick path to this knowledge. She summarizes: "The best way to get that publicity is to know your book, know your audience and know what's happening in the world." I would recommend The Frugal Book Promoter to any author who ever hopes to have a book to promote.

Sample Unsolicited Letters from FRUGAL Readers

I ordered your book and have perused it enough to know this is definitely the best book on promotion to date. I've bought many of them, but yours covers everything! Wonderful job--and I'll be using it for a long, long time.

~Marilyn Meredith, mystery author

I ordered (Your book) and waited impatiently for it to come. I must tell you that it is so helpful. My copy is only a couple weeks old and it's already dog-eared. I've used it for many things.

~Joyce Faulkner, author, publisher

You've just impressed the hell out of me. I was reading your email on the group, then saw your sig file. I so rarely follow someone's sig file to their home page, to their publisher's page, and I've never then gone ahead and bought the book, but I just did it with you. I don't know what the difference is between your book and the thousands of sig files I see each day

~ Tracy Cooper-Posey, author

(FRUGAL) is such an inspired title...I'm still reading in the book and I'm amazed and awed at all you have mastered in such a short time about book PR -- and how you have organized all this information for the benefit of others. I'm also fascinated with how much valuable information and outlets you have found on the Internet. "Frugal" is a Herculean accomplishment! There's something here for everybody, and it's essential for new authors.

~ Rolf Gompertz, former publicist for NBC, author and speaker

I'm sending to you (my promo material) just for fun, so you can see what your book hath wrought!

...Frugal's a great little handbook.

~ Connie Gotsch, author and KSJE radio host

So, about 12 months ago, I began to read about do-it-yourself book publicity. One of the best books I came across was "The Frugal Book Promoter: How to do what your publisher won't" by Carolyn Howard-Johnson. If you're looking for "nitty-gritty how-tos for getting nearly free publicity," this is the book for you. See <http://tinyurl.com/4vqyc>

~ Tim Bete, Director, Erma Bombeck Writers' Workshop, Dayton University

{Your book is} a life-saver. Just fabulous. Really. I'm a first-time novelist and petrified. The book gave me so many down-to-earth ways to understand how to proceed. It's hard to be facing publication and I know my publisher, a small but prestigious literary house, is not really going to be able to contribute much in terms of publicity. I'm much relieved to know now about all the positive steps to I can take.

~ Leora Skalkin-Smith, author

My {success with promotion} is all because of what I call the "Carolyn Factor." What's the "Carolyn Factor", you ask? Well, whenever I have doubts about doing/writing/promoting/putting myself out there -I think about what you would say to me. You would show me how to do it and then, to borrow from Nike..... you would say, "Just do it".....and then I do.

One Dozen Publicity No-Nos or How to Avoid Being a PR Numbskull

By Carolyn Howard-Johnson, author of
THE FRUGAL BOOK PROMOTER: HOW TO DO WHAT YOUR PUBLISHER WON'T

1. Don't assume your publisher will publicize for you.
2. Don't publicize your book; instead "brand" yourself.
3. Don't ask an editor, producer or host for "publicity." They are not in business to do favors for you.
4. Don't send a publicity or a news release. It's a "media release."
5. Don't send material to media professionals who have been dead for over a year or were fired for showing preferential treatment to friends.
6. Don't avoid all controversy. It may be your prescription for getting noticed.
7. Don't discard the word "ethics" from your campaign.
8. Don't pretend those who visit your Web site are only there to purchase your book.
9. Don't depend only on e-mails and faxes to get the word out to editors and booksellers.
10. Don't toss your books on marketing into your circular file once your book has been launched.
11. Don't treat your book sales like a hobby.
12. Don't believe everything about publicizing books (or writing them!) that you read on the Web. Consider the source. Check credentials.

Hint: In The Frugal Book Promoter: How To Do What Your Publisher Won't, you will find more on each no-no, accompanied by a recommendation for how to correct each faux pas. When you are done, you'll be able to identify the marketing curbs you might trip over and have new publicity tools to maneuver through the book marketing maze.

Beating Time at Its Own Game

Life Begins at 60

by Carolyn Howard-Johnson

Sometimes the big barriers in life aren't abject poverty, dreaded disease or death. Sometimes it's the subtle ones set upon us by time and place. The ones that can't be seen and can't be acknowledged because we don't know they are there. They creep up silently on padded feet and, if we sense them at all, we choose not to turn and face them.

The decade of the 50s was a time when these kinds of barriers faced those with dark skin, those who lived in closed religious communities, and those who were female.

When I applied for a job as a writer at Hearst Corporation in New York in 1961 I was required to take a typing test. I was piqued because I wasn't applying for the typing pool; I was applying for a post as an editorial assistant.

I was told, "No typing test, no interview." I took the test and was offered a job in the ranks of those who could do 70-in-a-minute. I had to insist upon the interview I had been promised. I was only twenty and had no real skills in assertiveness. Today I am amazed I had the wherewithal to do that.

The essentials of this anecdote lie in the fact that I was upset for the wrong reasons. My irritation was a reflection of hubris. However, that pride was probably what goaded me into speaking up; pride is not always a bad thing to have.

It never occurred to me that this requirement was one that applied only to women much less that I should be angry for the sake of my entire gender. Prejudice is sometimes like traveling on well-worn treads; you have no idea you're in danger. It also feeds on the ignorance of its victims. They benignly accept their lot because they know no better.

Something similar was at work when I married and had children. I happily took a new direction to accommodate my husband's career and the life the winds of the times presented to me. I left my writing with hardly a backward look. Back then, in the days before women had been made aware, the possibilities were not an open book to be denied or accepted. I just did what was expected by the entire culture.

Things are so much better now; I don't think women younger than their mid-fifties have any idea or how ignorant most women were to their own possibilities. That there was a time when we didn't even know we had choices is not fiction. Most women were full time mothers and often didn't drive or have their own transportation.

I had always wanted to sit in a forest or an office or a newsroom with a pencil in my hand. I dreamed writing, lived writing and loved writing. I wanted to write the next "Gone with the Wind" only about Utah instead of about the South. I had a plan that was, itself, gone with the wind.

It was the 1950s and women in that time, and especially in that place, had no notion of who they should be, could be. It was difficult to think independently; most everyone around them had difficulty seeing the difference between society's expectations and their own.

"You can't be a nurse," my mother said, "Your ankles aren't sturdy enough." I also was told I couldn't be a doctor because that wasn't a woman's vocation.

"Be a teacher because you can be home the same hours as your children, but learn to type because every woman should be able to make a living somehow if their husband dies."

Writing was not a consideration. It didn't fit any of the requirements. So when I gave it up, it didn't feel like I was giving up much.

When I began to put myself through college I took the sound advice and studied education so I'd have a profession. I made 75 cents an hour (this was, after all, the 50s!) working as a staff writer at the Salt Lake Tribune. That I was making a living writing didn't occur to me. I met a handsome young man and we were married. His career took precedence; that was simply how it was done. Then there were two children, carefully planned, also because that was how it should be done. By the 70s we both yearned for a career with autonomy, one where we could spend time with our children and be in command of our own lives.

My dream was a victim of the status quo. It never occurred to me to just strike out in my own direction when my husband and children needed me. The pain was there. I just didn't recognize it so I could hardly address it and fix it.

My husband and I built a business. We raised a lawyer and a sociologist, grew in joy with a grandson, lived through floods and moves, enjoyed travel. For forty years I didn't write and, during that time, there were changes. Women had more choices but more than that they had become more aware. The equipment—the gears and pulleys—were in place for a different view on life. In midlife I became aware that there was an empty hole where my children had been but also that the hole was more vast than the space vacated by them. I knew I not only would be able to write, I would need to write.

Then I read that, if those who live until they are fifty in these times may very likely see their hundredth year. That meant that I might have another entire lifetime before me—plenty of time to do whatever I wanted. In fact, it's my belief that women in their 50s might have more time for their second life than they did for the first because they won't have to spend the first twenty years preparing for adulthood.

One day I sat down and began to write the "Great Utah Novel." I thought it would be a lot easier than it was. I had majored in English Lit. Writing a novel should be pretty much second nature.

It wasn't long before I realized that it wasn't as easy as writing the news stories I had written as a young woman. There were certain skills I didn't have. It was a discouraging time. I might not have to learn speech and motor skills and the ABCs but there sure was a lot I didn't know about writing.

Somewhere after writing about 400 pages (easily a year's work), I knew something major was wrong.

I took classes at UCLA in writing. I attended writers' conferences. I read up on marketing. I updated computer skills that had been honed in the days of the Apple II. And all the while I wrote and revised and listened and revised again. This Is the Place finally emerged.

It is about a young woman, Skylar Eccles, who is a half-breed. In Utah where she was born and raised, that meant that she was one-half Mormon and one-half any other religion. Skylar considers marrying a Mormon man in spite of her own internal longing for a career. By confronting her own history—several generations of women who entered into mixed marriages—and by experiencing a series of devastating events, she comes to see she must make her own way in the world, follow her own true north.

Much of what I wrote about is my own story. If my novel were a tapestry, the warp would be real but the woof would be the stuff of imagination—real fiction.

I think I bring a unique vision to my work. Utah has a beauty and wonder of its own. The Mormons are a mystery to many. I tell a story about Utah in the 50s that could only be told by someone who lived in that time and place and who was a part of the two cultures—the Mormon and the Nonmormon—that make it a whole.

I am proud that I did it. I'm glad that I waited until I was sixty. Forty years brought insight to the story in terms of the obstacles that women faced in those days.

I also like being proof that a new life can start late—or that it is never too late to revive a dream.

Frugal and Informative Carolyn Howard-Johnson ~ Interviewed

Interviewed by Kelly Klepfer for NovelJourney.blogspot.com

Carolyn Howard-Johnson's first novel, This Is the Place, won eight awards. Her second book, Harkening: A Collection of Stories Remembered, creative nonfiction, won three. Her chapbook of poetry Tracings, was named to the Compulsive Reader's Ten Best Reads list and was given the Military Writers' Society of America's Silver Award of Excellence. An instructor for UCLA Extension's world-renown Writers' Program, her book The Frugal Book Promoter: How to Do What Your Publisher Won't is recommended reading for her classes, and was named USA Book News' "Best Professional Book 2004." It is also an Irwin Award winner. Her second book in the How To Do It Frugally series is The Frugal Editor: Put Your Best Book Forward to Avoid Humiliation and Ensure Success is also a USA Book News award-winner as well as the winner of the Reader View's Literary Award in the publishing category. She is the recipient of both the California Legislature's Woman of the Year in Arts and Entertainment Award and the Glendale American Business Women's Association's Woman of the Year award. Her community's Character and Ethics Committee honored her for promoting tolerance with her writing. She was also named to Pasadena Weekly's list of 14 "San Gabriel Valley women who make life happen." She is a popular speaker and actor. Her website is How to do it Frugally.

What mistakes did you make on your way to marketing genius? (I'm prone to making up words....feel free to use your own favorite non-word if you've got one...)

Oh, I love making up words. I even mention that and how to handle them in The Frugal Editor. I made lots of mistakes. Mistakes are how you learn. But most of the mistakes I made would be classified more as publishing mistakes than marketing ones.

Carolyn Howard-Johnson

Website: <http://www.HowToDoItFrugally.com>

The one I have the most difficulty with now is editing. Once you have a book out about editing (The Frugal Editor) it is especially humiliating to be caught with your typos down.

Most people don't connect editing with marketing, but the quality of the work you put out there is part of your branding (your image) and that's marketing for sure! I guess I am lucky that the other part of my branding has been the word "frugal" so that I can always cop that I was too chintzy to hire that extra pair of eyes I so strongly recommend.

As a guru for inexpensive self-promotion, give us a best "bang for your buck" marketing idea.

Web promotion is the Big Bang. There is much there that will only cost you your time and all kinds of ways to do it. Web promotion also appeals to the shy writer. They don't have to get out and speak or teach or do radio or TV to do it. Though I don't recommend anyone hide behind her computer.

A bit of wisdom from the Frugal Editor....

Mmmmm. Wisdom. At my age I should have some of that. I'm trying to think of something you haven't seen before. Let's see. On your first contact with publisher, agent, editor or any of the other gatekeepers, go for zero-tolerance editing. Most of them are steeped in tradition and won't be amused by arguments like, "That's the way I like it," or "This is merely a style choice I'm entitled to make." In fact, they won't bother to argue with you. They may just deep six your manuscript before they've even read the first page. And the only thing you'll ever know is that your gorgeous, beautiful, original novel didn't sell as you hoped it would.

And one more....wisdom for a first impression....

You brush your teeth in the morning and pull the rats' nests out of your hair, right? That's branding. So think about what message you're sending with the color of your blouse, the kind of paper you choose and the perfection of your query letter.

What is the worst marketing/promotion mistake a writer might make?

Actually the worst one is not to do it. Out of fear. Out of lack of know how. Or because a writer still believes their publisher will do it for them.

How can we avoid errors that cripple our attempts to promote?

Let's be very, very serious for a minute. We learn from errors. The worst error we can make is to fear making them so badly that the fear paralyzes us. Sure, do your homework. Read your books. Take a class. Get a consultant. But also do some diving. You can't make a splash if you don't. Also, most people (the ones with heart) will be accepting of an honest effort and some will even offer some advice if you boo-boo.

Describe today's reader based on your observations.

Readers (and movie-goers too) like to think they are reading the TRUTH. You know, "based on a true story." I don't know where we'd be without the truths of the likes of fiction writers like Joyce and Dostoevsky so I don't like to hear that. Still, it doesn't hurt to be aware that attitude is out there when you're marketing fiction.

What changes have you noticed in publishing recently? Do you find these changes good or not so good, explain your answer.

What I saw at the last Book Expo America was that the huge New York publishers are borrowing from independent authors and publishers. Things like the use of digital printing, as an example.

What one or two things could you share with Novel Journey readers that might surprise them regarding book promotion?

I think it's important for authors to know that they can find some way to promote that suits both their pocketbooks and their personalities. You can promote by writing. There are a few chapters on how to do that in the Frugal Book Promoter. One of those ways is by reviewing. Another is by writing articles for what some call article banks. You can find a list of those article banks on the Resources for Writers section of my website. They're also called content providers. The exact URL is:

If you could say one thing to aspiring authors what would it be?

YOU CAN BE IN CONTROL OF YOUR OWN WRITING CAREER. Yes, I am yelling because I really, really want you to hear. You can shoot for a publishing and writing career of your choice but you are not at the mercy of traditional modes of publishing any longer.

Parting words, words of wisdom, the perfect answer to the question you wished I asked, or random thoughts.....

Of course there are always heartfelt thank yous. But another of my favorites (because it was so true for me) is that it is never too late to start writing, to start telling your story. If you don't do it now, then when? I'd also like people to know about the organization I founded, Authors' Coalition. And about the associated newsletter I edit. ### On Karma, PR, Frugality and Other Matters

Interview by Kristin J. Johnson for MyShelf.com

Kristin: Congratulations on your third book, Carolyn. With all the book promotion how-tos out there, this stands out. How did you get the idea?

Carolyn:

In THE FRUGAL BOOK PROMOTER: HOW TO DO WHAT YOUR PUBLISHER WON'T, I advise writers to recycle. This book is an example of that concept. I looked at my computer--at all the articles I had written on promotion for trade magazines, for websites and for the SPAN CONNECTION (the newsletter for the Small Publishers Association of America)--and thought, darn! I almost have a book there!

I didn't do anything about it right away but then I kept seeing how fellow authors struggle with the concepts of publicity--in fact with the idea that they have to do their own promotions at all! So I put my novel aside and did it. It was a labor of sharing and love, really.

Kristin: You're a well-respected columnist on literary trends, such as the Noble Prize for Literature. What do you think of the publishing market today?

Carolyn:

I think it is a tough business but every business is tougher than it was three decades ago. Business models are different and there is more competition. Having said that, I am a perennial optimist and I think writers who are motivated, persistent and do what is necessary to keep whittling at the fine craft of writing and the exciting process of promoting their work will succeed.

Kristin: Why did you choose Star Publish for THE FRUGAL BOOK PROMOTER?

Carolyn:

Kristin, your book is a memoir and my first two are also creative works. I believe traditional publishing suits creative prose better than others. The media views traditional publishing with an unjaded eye and tends to lump anything published another way as amateurish. I don't condone those attitudes and I think they are slowly changing, but I know that they are realities that authors must deal with. Publish America juries its books and pays an advance to its authors. It is not subsidy nor self-publishing and I think my books (and yours!) got a better start in life because of that.

THE FRUGAL BOOK PROMOTER: HOW TO DO WHAT YOUR PUBLISHER WON'T is a different bag altogether. It is nonfiction. It is a how-to. Authors of these kinds of books can make more gross profit on each book sold--much more-- if they choose a less traditional route. I also needed to release it before my fall classes at UCLA started. I wanted my students to have access to it. Star Publish is a brand new house headed by a friend of mine. I wanted to be there for her, to help direct traffic to her new site. And I knew that she would give my new baby all the loving care I would. Whew! A mixed bag of reasons, huh?

Kristin: While THIS IS THE PLACE and HARKENING--which are both excellent--got some ingenious press thanks to your columns, reviewing, and the Olympics in Salt Lake City. I understand that because of the books' portrayal of the Mormon Church, they are unofficially banned in Utah. Talk more about that.

Carolyn:

Some people would disagree with my assessment because, certainly, many people in Utah have read both books. But I mailed a huge number of those copies into the state myself. At first my books were stocked at Walden's Books but disappeared from the shelves very quickly. My friends and relatives tried to order them were told that they were "out of print." At the state's huge Deseret Book store chain (owned by the Mormon Church), they were kindly refused that accommodation. Then people started calling me with orders of six and twelve for themselves, relatives and friends. I don't sell my own books. They are listed with Ingram, Baker and Taylor and other distributors. But I started buying some myself and sending them on. I also started referring everyone to Amazon.com who, apparently, have a better notion of the importance of freedom of the press than many others. I may be paranoid, but what would you think?

By the way, I don't think either book is controversial. I paint a reasonable picture of subtle prejudices in the entire community. I'm sort of an equal-opportunity finger pointer! After all, none of us is entirely free from prejudice no matter how hard we work at it.

Kristin: Controversy does sell! How did you get around the Mormon Church?

Carolyn:

Actually it was more about how I got around negative publicity among the righteous. You know how I feel about promotion! I got busy and found interviews on more than 300 radio and TV stations. Syndicated. Cable. Network. You name it. Word got out. THIS IS THE PLACE was given the Mille Club award by my publisher. That is an honor awarded for sales and marketing.

Kristin: I understand that you're working on a new novel. Have you begun marketing already? What's the status of the novel?

Carolyn:

It's working title is LABYRINTH. I have been sleeping on it for awhile since FRUGAL has taken up so much time. It is different from anything I have done before. It is based on a true story. It is set in Los Angeles but has a parallel story set in Crete. The Greek myth of King Minos and the Minotaur will influence both stories. I plan to go to Crete for inspiration and to polish it next summer. So you see, there is lots of work to be done.

Kristin: What advice do you have beyond the treasure trove in THE FRUGAL BOOK PROMOTER?

Carolyn:

Funny you should ask. I sent my fellow writers a note only this week because I found a tip in Joan Stewart's THE PUBLICITY HOUND. I would have included it in THE FRUGAL BOOK PROMOTER if I could have but it has just gone to press. It seemed that using my rather unofficial, casual newsletter, Sharing with Writers, was the second best way to do it.

The reason I'm so intense about sharing this information is that my writing friends are always cautious about overkill when it comes to promotion. This little treasure came from Publicist Jill Lublin and here it is:

Be sure to put Sharing with Writers in the subject line.

Kristin: Describe some of your more memorable publicity moments. Joyce Spizer once described riding in a police squad car to an author appearance.

Carolyn:

I think my most memorable is more nostalgic than sensational and it involves you. It was when I was interviewed on ABC TV by Peter Kulevich. I had just met you and we sat at the bar at The Chart House in Palm Springs with my sweet Mormon friend from Utah (maybe the first time she had ever sat at a bar!) because that was the only place we could find a TV set and eat, too! We got acquainted and watched the little screen up in the corner. Waiting. Waiting. For the 6 p.m. news. I remember how hard it was to get the bartender to switch the station from a sports station to something as mundane as the nightly news and books. And how surprised he seemed when we ordered three Perriers!

Kristin: You are also a gifted poet whose poems, "Olvera Street," for one, have been widely published. Talk more about that.

Carolyn:

I simply ache to write poetry. Metaphor and symbols seem to permeate my life. At first I applied them to prose but when I realized how important they were to my soul, I started to write poetry. I hope to have a small chapbook out soon that will include all of my published poems plus a few others. Again, it is a matter of sharing.

Kristin: I'd be remiss if I didn't mention Yarrow Brook Press and MyShelf.com, two sources that you have an ongoing relationship with. Talk more about the importance of relationships.

Carolyn:

Ahhh! One of the major themes in FRUGAL! It's all about Karma. A book on promotion may seem an odd place to find such information. If we offer service to others, the love cycles back to us. The subject of public relations is widely misunderstood. Put the emphasis on "relations" and we begin to see how our lives--both external and internal--can benefit.

Kristin: Carolyn, thank you so much.

Carolyn:

Thank you, Kristin. One of the blessings of writing is finding and nurturing friendships like yours.
